

July 26-31, 2015

← Training Institute for
← Dissemination and
← Implementation
← Research in Health

Westin Pasadena | Pasadena, California

The Context for D&I Research in Global Health

George A. Mensah, MD, FACC

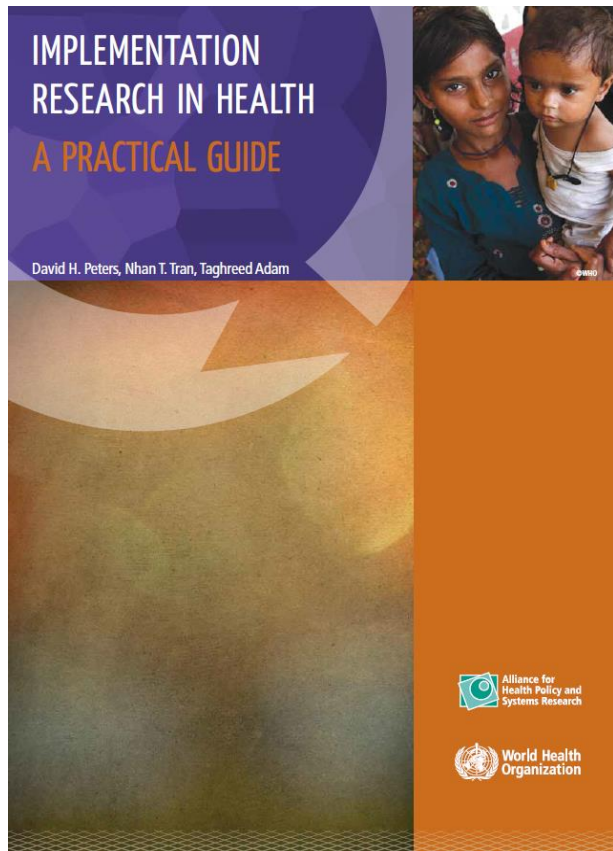

Center for Translation Research and Implementation Science

National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute, NIH

Bethesda, Maryland

There is an increasing recognition of the importance of D&I Research at the Global Level

“We spend billions on health innovations, but very little on how best to apply them in real-world settings. Without implementation research, we are at best committing valuable resources in the hope that things will work out.”

<http://www.who.int/alliance-hpsr/resources/implementationresearchguide/en/>

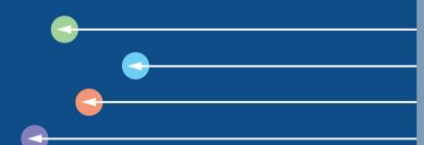

Statement on Advancing Implementation Research and Delivery Science

Developed by the participants of a series of consultative meetings hosted by the Alliance for Health Policy and Systems Research within the World Health Organization, USAID, and The World Bank Group, with facilitation by USAID-TRAction Project and Johns Hopkins University.

<http://healthsystemsglobal.org>

Final draft as of September 30, 2014

Alliance for Health Policy and Systems Research World Health Organization – 2014 At-A-Glance

More than 80 projects in 40 countries

A Moderated Panel Discussion with Strong Emphasis on Audience Participation

- What have been the unique challenges for D&I research in different parts of the world?
- How have different countries and regions tackled these challenges?
- What lessons can we learn from the most successful and least successful approaches?
- What are the highly successful approaches in the global health arena worth spreading?
- What funding opportunities exist for D&I research in global health?

July 26-31, 2015

← Training Institute for
← Dissemination and
← Implementation
← Research in Health

Westin Pasadena | Pasadena, California

Global Application of D&I Research

Cynthia Vinson

Sharon Strauss

Lawrence Palinkas

